Ghostbusters: Answer the Call #1 Kelly Thompson , Corin Howell (Illustrator)

"What Dreams May Come, Part 1!" On a routine house call to dispose of a simple Class III spook, Abby, Patty, Erin, and Holtzmann encounter a truly terrifying Class VII that appears to be feeding on fear. Able to create illusions that prey on their greatest fears, and with designs on turning the world into its own nightmare dimension ('natch!) our ladies may have finally met their match!

Mia says

The Ghostbusters films are comedies so, good news, this is funny! This was laugh out loud funny. Kelly Thompson, who has crept up and become one of my favourite writers, really captures the voice of each character.

Corin Howell does a great job on inks, she really sells the visual jokes .

I can't recommend this enough, it's just a shame it's a limited series and not an ongoing.

Ella says

Issue #1 is pretty action heavy and character light, but I think it works well. I appreciate things starting off with a bang, and hopefully the characters/relationships will open up as the story moves forward. (Kelly Thompson's dialogue is, as always, clever and super fun.)
