Librarian Faith Holt is being blackmailed by her company's biggest competitor ... with revenge porn. In order to get the one minute clip of her showering - and all other copies - she must steal the infamous Montgomery Design book from the corporate library where she works. Except she discovers the copy is missing. Desperate, she enlists Connor Montgomery's help, leading him to believe his brother - her boss - will fire her if the book is not found.

Connor Montgomery embraces the title of the black sheep of the family, fully enjoying the perks—no expectations, a jet-set lifestyle, and the women who throw themselves at him because of his last name. The only woman who doesn't care about his black sheep title or his last name is Montgomery Industry's sweet and shy librarian. So, when Faith asks him to help her find his grandfather's design book, he jumps at the opportunity to spend time with her, completely prepared to be the one doing the seducing...until his shy librarian turns the tables on him.

But, when the truth comes out, and Connor learns that Faith's just using him, will he be able to forgive her?
