A very talented author

I am a voracious sci fi reader and rarely give five star ratings but these books excel in all my literary criteria.

Toe to toe with her arch nemesis

A mongo battle, perhaps a little turgid at times but satisfying. Jessica, the master tactician, belay that... strategist meets the foe's best warrior to save an irreplaceable entity.

This book was closer to 3.5 stars than 4 stars. I like battle scenes but they were non-stop. At least in the other books there were some interactions with more people on-planet and the beginning of a relationship. This book was all about the ships, their speed, their missiles, etc. I was super bored by the end. Even the epilogue didn't whet my appetite for more. So, I'll take a break from the series and read something else. :)

Yay, oh yeah read this book

Hey we finally get some serious space battling. Well done, difficult stuff to write as we don't battle in space, I'm sure we'll manage to do so eventually. No spoilers, but hey I enjoyed this series. Dig in and have at, is a pretty good feast.

Rare

This series is rare, like finding a Rembrandt drawing inbetween kids stuff, if you are into MSF and like the Kris Longknife series, this will be a treasure. 6 stars out of 5, Highly recommended!

This is the third book in this series and in my opinion, the best of the three. Each one keeps getting better and the character development is great. The space battles are excellently written and I enjoyed how the author described each ship and crew with their own unique combined personality depending on how they were commanded. I'm also impressed by the subtle growth of the characters in this third book. They have not remained static from book one to book three. Each character has grown either in maturity, confidence, ability, or even deviousness.

The overall story is powered by sneaky background politics and ongoing war which serves to add more depth. I'm very much looking forward to finding out where the story goes from here, and I hope it still involves all the same main characters as they've really grown on me!
