Good craft ideas

Loved the little bottles of potions u cud make very sweet and the chocolate necklaces and rings and other yummy ideas

Rosanne Marie Taylor says

Easy read with simple projects

I enjoyed this book & feel it has several projects to choose from, they are fairly simple & includes something for everyone. I would recommend this book.

Interesting

This book offers different crafting ideas from different books. Love e d the variety offered and the clear directions. GreAt price too

Lori Jeane Boyle says

Easy to understand.
The baking items were costly. Not budget minded.
The pattern 's for the fabric items were also simple uncomplicated

peggy knecht says

Really cool

I wrote this review because I am a geek at heart, and I wanted to some of my hobbies with my friends. This is a really good book for handcrafted gift ideas.

Charles T Richardson says

Cute and sassy

Love the idea of using this stuff for a variety of reasons. Getting attention and being a great party gift and party prizes.

Liz Quirky says

Dumb

Everything here was child's play and looked liked it too. What a bore. Waste of time. No, I wouldn't recommend this to anyone. Sorry.

Andrea Lawson says

Okay book

This is good for adults, but when 12 year old Daria started reading this she got to the champagne cake and didn't know what to think.

Great tips

this book tells you great diy tips a really liked the one with the dog pocket for a iphone or iPod or even phones things like that.

James Overcash says

Definitely different.

Easy directions, good detailed pictures. Will have to look up linked web sites . Interested in other publications by group.

Deborah says

Was an interesting read, but wasn't quite what my ideas looked like.

DIY Gifts

There were some cute ideas in this book and a couple of recipes that I would like to try. Got this one for free, would have been disappointed if I had paid for it.

Dawn says

I just love craft time with family and friends! This book has things I haven't done but, wanted to try. It's all very simple and I had more craft ideas come in mind while reading it alone! I definitely suggest this to people who like creating things, including food items! Besides, it's free to look through

Christina says

I enjoyed the book, but I wish it was more focused. Some of the gifts sound cute, but I can't imagine giving those items to someone, or getting some of these as gifts. The DIYs:

Tiny Books

(cute books, great directions)

Cat Book Covers

(needle felted cats to felt)

Lightning Tshirt

(stenciling on a shirt using freezer method)

Flower Sticks

(paper flower cutouts on sticks)

Vanilla-Bean Meringue Kisses

(if this tastes good, a great gift)

Pink Champagne Cake

(if it tastes good, a great gift)

Mallow Cones

(if it tastes good, a great kids party recipe)

Whale Onesie

(stenciling on a onesie using freezer method)

Temporary Tattoos

(inkjet printer & adhesive, sounds fun)

Cat Portraits

(needle felting with your cat's hair)

Animal Cookies

(regular sugar cookies shaped as animals)

Dog Gadget Sleeve

(felt ipod sleeve)

Candy Charms

(polymer clay made into candy, good directions)

Inside-Out Cookie Dough Truffles

(basically cake pops)

Homemade Vanilla Extract & Vanilla Sugar

(um?)

Solar System Mobile

(balls of wool yarn on strings)

Mini Homemade Pop Tarts

(recipe)

Bottled Potions

(this isn't much of a gift unless you like fairies, glitter in tiny water-filled bottles)

Overall, I was disappointed by the variety, usually that's good, but this ebook needed some focus. I don't need felt so those are 2 wasted ideas for me; freezer paper stenciling should only be listed once maybe plus an alternative; recipes should be in their own gift giving book. I wish this had been separate books with focus per medium, instead of all together. Plus these are not original ideas to the author, they are compiled from other books, while all cited correctly, I found that to be a disappointment. Much of this can be found online for free (stencils, polymer clay, etc).

Awesome

There is some really cute crafts. I think a art teacher would really benefit from this book. Also teachers for class projects
