The Crystal Ship T.C. Southwell

Rayne dreads the coming of the Crystal Ship and the legendary monster it bears. An Envoy destroyed a world once before, an almost forgotten event. One man, whose life the creature ruined, remembers. The mysterious Shrike has built the Slave Empire on blood and tears, and Rayne must have his help if she is to defeat the Envoy. The battle to protect her will bring three empires to the brink of war.

Southwell has an amazing imagination. Her rendering of the alien Crystal Ship, inhabited and controlled by the evil and destructive Envoy, is pretty amazing. Rayne is the "Golden Child" prophesied to protect the world of Atlan from destruction. She and her brother are rescued from the fatally damaged Earth and brought to their new home, so that she can provide the protection the legends promise. Indeed, the Crystal Ship with its master Envoy is the threat and her efforts to destroy the Envoy, yet protect the gentle enslaved ship, nearly end her life. The Shrike joins her as her guardian and together they finally achieve the impossible task. The end of this trilogy is about the Shrike.
