I was delighted to win this copy of "The Rebel's Angel" from Goodreads First Reads giveaways. This novella was short and sweet. And the story and characters have haunted me since reading it. This author did an excellent job in creating realistic characters and scenes that have stayed in my heart and memory. The civil war era is one of my favorite topics. I am hopeful that Cassandra Lutheran will continue to write and I could imagine her being able to take this setting and these colorful characters and make an epic novel or series with them. I only gave this book 4 stars as it was a bit short and I feel it could have been more developed all the way around. Thank you for allowing me to read and review this book. I look forward to reading more of Ms. Lutheran's works as the years go by.

In compliance with FTC guidelines, I received the book for free through Goodreads First Reads. At 109 pages, this should be considered a novella. Having said that I enjoyed this story about a young woman in the aftermath of the Battle of Sharpsburg. The author has taken a topic that has been well written about and added her own twists. The books was well written and fast paced. The only problem I have with this book is that I feel the main character, Jenna, was a bit too trusting with everyone around her. Looking forward to read the author's following books.

I was fortunate enough to win this book through Good Reads First Reads giveaways.

The first thing I noticed about this book was how thin it was. It's more of a novella than a full fledged novel.

Although it was a short story, I did enjoy it. The author was able to write an easy to read love story set during the civil war. Perhaps because of it's length, I believe the author could not get into much detail with both the story and the characters. The story had a good plot line to it and Ms. Lutheran writes very succinctly.

I would like to see her next works expand on her talent.
