Grade: 2-4

Genre: Fiction

Review: The Geronimo Stilton series is one I was recently introduced to by the 1st grader I nanny. He is at a reading level far beyond his grade, but still has some challenges reading this book; I think he just loves the silliness of it, and I typically end up reading aloud to him. This book is great for teaching fluency and expression, as it includes dialogue and many expressive features. The print is large enough for students to read comfortably, and the vocabulary is just right for these primary to intermediate grades.

Plot:

Geronimo is a newspaper delivering mouse in a New York City-like environment. Geronimo is always getting into all kinds of adventures- there are 60+ books in the series! In this edition, he is assigned to the task of protecting the crown jewels in London. He and his trusty friend, Trap, travel across the pond to solve some mysteries and perform some exciting magic in the process!

this book was really good but if trap involves with the mystery then i would rather give it a bad report but mostly the book was good i wish they made a movie out of this but the book was entertaining i knew the thief until i saw him and i can not believe that geronimo did nor reconize him and thought that was dumb.

Jaskaran Gill says

Geronimo Stilton and his cousin Trap were travelling to England for two reasons, the first one is that Trap wants to attend the world's hardest magician contest and Geronimo is told to investigate by Agent 000. One thing which Geronimo discovered that someone had their paws on the crown jewels! And before he could solve his mystery, Trap needed his help to perform an impossible magic trick. Could Geronimo do it all?
